In endnotes and bibliographic entries, please use “№” for journal article entries in Russian and “No.” for journal article entries in English (and for transliterated Russian sources).

If a DOI indicator is available for a bibliographical entry in any language, it should be placed at the end of endnote/bibliographical reference:

- 6) For a reference to the same source in the next endnote, use: “Ibid.” or “Ibid. P. 41.”
- 7) For a reference to the same sources later in the text, provide the author’s name or source title (for sources with no author) and add “Op. cit.”.

Bibliography

The style applicable for bibliographical entries is generally identical to the endnote style. There are only 2 exceptions:

- 1) For articles in research (academic) journals, please provide the full range of an article’s pages instead of cited pages. For example:

Bellamy A.J. Responsibility to Protect or Trojan horse? The crisis in Darfur and humanitarian intervention after Iraq // Ethics & International Affairs. V. 19. № 2. 2005. P. 5–25.

- 2) To comply with standards of most international indexes, for all bibliographical entries with non-Latin scripts please (a) provide the transliterated version first and (b) add the version in the original script next (especially for Cyrillic scripts). For example:

Gudev P.A. Azovskoe more i Kerchenskii proliv: problemy delimitatsii morskikh prostranstv i opredelenia pravovogo statusa // Mirovaia ekonomika i mezhdunarodnye otnosheniia. 2018. No. 10. P. 91–102. DOI: 10.20542/0131-2227-2018-62-10-91-102.
Гудев П.А. Азовское море и Керченский пролив: проблемы делимитации морских пространств и определения правового статуса // Мировая экономика и международные отношения. 2018. № 10. С. 91–102. DOI: 10.20542/0131-2227-2018-62-10-91-102.

For transliteration of Russian words into the Latin script “ts” should be used for «ц», “zh” for «ж», “shch” for «щ», and “kh” for «х».

For transliteration of bibliographical entries in Russian, please use “P.” (page) as an abbreviation instead of “S.” («страница») and “Issue” instead of “Vyp.” (“выпуск”).
